TRENTON, July 16.—A petition in annulment proceedings filed in the Court of Chancery by Arthur S. Reihl of Roselle Park to have his marriage to Louise Geist of Davison's Mills, formerly waitress at the home of Mrs. Edward W. Hall, set aside has revived interest in the Hall-Mills murder case. They were married on September 2, 1924, by Recorder John W. Reed of Bound Brook, according to the petition which was filed here by Reinhold Hekeler of West New York, counsel for Reihl.

The papers in the action were mislaid and when an effort was made to locate them this morning they could not be found. The newspaper men, covering the Chancery Court insisted the papers be produced if they were on file at the office, and three hours later they were found in the desk of one of the girl clerks and were then made public.

The petition sets forth that Reihl and his wife never lived together after their marriage. It is further claimed by Reihl that Mrs. Geist Reihl had withheld certain facts from him which she possessed before their marriage and that she was guilty of gross fraud and misrepresentation.

"Before the marriage," the petition continues, "the respondent, Mrs. Reihl, carefully and deliberately withheld from your petitioner, the facts that she had knowledge of the doings of certain of the principals of the well known Hall-Mills murder case."

Referring to detectives and reporters, it is set forth in the Chancery bill, Mrs. Reihl is alleged to have said:

Fate Plays Big Part in Naval Arsenal Blast

(By the Associated Press)

DOVER, July 16.—A queer turn of fate played a part in a tragedy when Lake Denmark navy arsenal was destroyed last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. A. Edward Feeney, with their baby and a niece, of 542 East 20th street, Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived here shortly before the explosion to spend the week-end with Chief Gunner and Mrs. Joseph M. Gately. Seeing approaching storm clouds they hailed a taxicab and hurried to the shelter of the naval arsenal. A few minutes after they reached the arsenal reservation the explosion occurred. Mrs. Feeney died that night from injuries; Mr. Feeney was injured and the baby is suffering from powder burns. Chief Gunner Gately is missing and Mrs. Gately is in St. Mary's Hospital, Brooklyn, recovering from injuries. Mrs. Feeney was a sister of Mrs. Gately.

Stolen Goods, N. J. Truck Loot, Found in N. Y.

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 16.—Three alleged receivers of stolen property were arrested early today when police raided a warehouse in Crosby street and recovered $120,000 worth of clothing and fabrics, stolen they say in many recent robberies of trucks.

James Roscico of Vineland, N. J., complained to the police last June that as he was driving a truck from Philadelphia to New York loaded with $50,000 worth of men's clothing he was stopped near Bordentown, N. J. by seven bandits who stole the truck and load.
